

RM-10868 This is worst proposal that anyone could come up with.
There isn't a ham alive that could pass a test without knowing some of the subject matter they are going to be tested on.
Morse code was fine back in the 40s and 60s but with the modes available today it is clearly outdated and too slow for emergency communications.